Chapter 11 Case

Debtor in Bankruptcy
Lehman Brothers Holdings, Inc.

CLAIMANT OBJECTIONS TO DEBTORS
MOTION TO DISALLOW HER CLAIM

Now Comes Annetta F. Pugia a recorded claim holder (See exhibit attached marked 1.) against the debtor, LEHMAN BROTHERS HOLDING, INC and files this her counter motion PRO SE praying that this most honorable court does not disallow her claim against the debtor for the below listed reasons and any reason this honorable court may find has merit..

ARGUMENT

1.) The claimant had invested what represents a great deal of money to her some $23,000 dollars subject to the verbal and printed guarantees and claims of the debtor that is was a longstanding, secure and financially sound company and her investment would pay her a return income, which she required being a senior.

2.) Within a short time after her investment the debtor was not only found to be financially unsound, but that it had performed certain financial acts that brought it before this most honorable court and said acts and its financial condition at the time it accepted her investment has now been well documented through independent accounting and Government audit reports that the debtor at the time it took her money was well aware it was having financial problems from the documented risk it had taken of hers and other investment.

SUMMARY

The claimant now stands before this most honorable court which has become her last court of recourse having file PRO SE this motion for her claim not to be disallowed.

The claimant can only hope that this most honorable court which must rule on the matters of what claims it must allow or not allow looks at this motion to allow her claim as a blow for all the small investors.

She based on assures both verbally and in writing that she was dealing with a longtime solid investment company, one that would give her large to her, a small piffle little investment to them the due care and up most attention gave them her money which without those assures and longevity of the debtor would not have.

When in fact at the time she entrusted her investment to their care they having had already taken extreme risks and were for all intent and purposes insolvent.

CLOSING

By the allowing of this motion this most honorable court will have given at least one small investor of the many thousands who lose their savings through no fault of their own the opportunity to being brought back to square one from all the entanglements and financial maneuvering of Wall Street.

Praying that you find in her favor.

Debtor, LEHMAN BROTHERS
HOLDING, INC.

Dear Ms. Caldernon, Please find my motion of objection to dismiss my standing in the above titled matter, with my notice of service. Please once again do me a big favor and make sure this objection is ruled on by Judge Peck.

May I ask you a question? Isn't it time for someone like me a senior who has always done the right thing, paid her taxes and bills in a timely manner, raising three children working for the phone company for 35 years gets a break, in particular being a senior on a fixed income I can assure you $23,000 is a lot of money.

It sure would be nice, please likewise find a SASE enclosed to forward me Judge Peck's decision. I like to take this opportunity to thank you for this and your prior attention to my requests, May I wish you a very Happy Thanksgiving? I Remain,

Very Sincerely Yours,

Annetta Farber Pugia
